Churchill Warns Optimists

End Of War Not Yet In Sight: Hitler Rushing Reinforcements For Defence Of Bridgehead

WESTMINSTER, Feb. 22. Prime Minister Churchill was greeted with tremendous cheers when he began his speech in the Commons to-day.

He said: "This is no time for sorrow or rejoicing. It is time for preparation, effort and resolve. The war is still going on. I have never taken the view that the end of the war in Europe is at hand or that Hitler is about to collapse and I have certainly given no guarantee or even held out any expectation that the year 1944 will see the end of the European war. Nor have I given any guarantee the other way."

NAZI STRENGTH

Mr. Churchill said: On the whole my information—and I have a good deal—goes to show that Hitler and his police are still in full control and that the Nazis and their generals have decided to hang together.

The strength of the German army is about 300 Divisions though many of these are substantially reduced in numbers. The fighting quality of the troops is high. The German General Staff system, which he failed to liquidate after the last war, represents an order comprising many thousands of highly trained officers and a school or doctrine of unbroken continuity.

It possesses great skill both in the handling of troops in action and in their rapid movement from place to place. The recent fighting in Italy should leave no doubt on these points.

It is true that the results of our bombing have had a noteworthy effect on the German munitions production. In the people they have produced a dull apathy which also affects the munitions, production and all A.R.P. services.

SOVIET EFFORT

The solid victories of our Soviet Ally on the Eastern Front are reducing immense losses to the enemy. The fact that so many of enemy divisions have been drawn into Italy and into Yugoslavia, while other large bodies are being held in France and the Low Countries by the fear of invasion has been a help to these victories.

BRITAIN'S PART IN WAR

It is far from my wish to make any boastful statement about the part which this island is playing in the war. It has, however, been borne upon me that the interests of the Alliance.

As a whole may be prejudiced. If its other members are left in ignorance of the British share in the great events which are unfolding, the Dominions also have a right to know that the mother country is playing its part. I think it is, therefore, my duty to state a few facts which are perhaps not generally realised. For instance since January 1, 1943 up to the present, time—middle of February—ships of the Royal Navy and aircraft of the Royal Air Force—that is to say forces of the mother country only—have sunk more than half the U-Boats of which we have certain proof in the shape of living prisoners.

They have also destroyed 40 per cent of a very large number of other U-Boats of which either corpses or fragments provide a definite evidence of destruction. Again on the naval side, apart from enemy U-Boats we have sunk by British action along since January 1, 1943 19 enemy warships and also a large number of E-Boats, escort vessels, minesweepers and other auxiliaries. British action has been predominantly responsible for sinking during this period 316 merchantships aggregating 835,000 tons.

CASUALTIES

In that same period 7,676 officers and men of the Royal Navy and about 4,200 merchant Navy officers and men have lost their lives in British ships. This last, however, does not at all represent the total war sacrifice to date of our merchant seamen, because matters have improved very much lately. Since the beginning of the war, the proportion of merchant seamen hailing from these islands alone who have been lost at sea on their vital duty has been about one-fifth of the average number engaged in this service. The total personnel of officers and men of the Royal Navy lost since the war started in just over 30 per cent of its pre-war strength, figures being 41,000 killed out of 138,000 which was its total strength on the outbreak of the war.

Since January 1, 1943, ships of the Royal Navy have bombed the enemy coast on 716 occasions. In the same period we have lost in action or had disabled for more than one year—serious disabilities—95 ships of war.

BOMBING OF BERLIN

Turning to air, the honour of bombing Berlin has fallen almost entirely to us. Up to the present we have delivered the main attack upon Germany.

BRITAIN'S AIR LOSSES

Excluding Dominion and Allied squadrons working with the Royal

Air Force, British Islands have lost 38,300 pilots and aircrews killed and 10,400 missing and over 10,000 aircraft since the beginning of the war. They have made nearly 900,000 sorties in the North European theatre. As far as the army, the British Army was little more than a police force in 1939, yet it has fought in every part of the world.

As a result of enormous transportation across the Atlantic which have been made during 1943, the United States bomber force in this island now begins to surpass our own and will soon be substantially greater still. I rejoice to say

FOUR GREAT RAIDS ON GERMANY

The efforts of the two forces at well together and according to all past standards each effort is in itself prodigious. During the 48 hours beginning at 3-0 hours on February 20th, four great raids were made upon Germany.

Taken together these four raids in which over 9,000 tons of bombs were dropped on Germany by the two Allies constituted the most violent attack yet made upon Germany.

We look for a great restriction and dislocation of the entire German munitions supply no matter how far the factories are withdrawn. The proper course for German civilians and non-combatants to take is to quit the centres of munitions production and take refuge in the countryside (hear hear).

BOMBING PRIORITIES

An elaborate scheme of bombing priorities upon which a large band of highly skilled American and British officers are constantly at work in accordance with the directions of the combined Chiefs of staff in Washington has governed our action for some time past. It is continually kept up to date.

Every opportunity is and will be sought by us to force the enemy to expend and exhaust his fighter aircraft strength. Our production of aircraft—fighters and bombers—judged by every possible test already far exceeds the Germans. The Russian production is about equal to ours and the American production alone is double or treble the German production.

PROGRESS IN ITALY

I shall not moralise further than to say that there is strange and stern justice in the long swing of events. Our other great joint Anglo-American offensive is in Italy. Many people have been disappointed with the progress there since the capture of Naples in October. This has been due to extremely bad weather which marks the winter in a supposedly sunshiny land and which has been worse than usual. Secondly, and far more it is because the Germans, bit by bit, have been drawn into Italy and have decided to make extreme exertions for the retention of the City of Rome.

ROME'S DEFENCES

Hitler has apparently resolved to defend Rome with the same obstinacy which he showed at Stalingrad, in Tunisia and recently in the Dnieper Bend. No fewer than seven extra German divisions were brought rapidly down from France, from Northern Italy and from Yugoslavia and a determined attempt has been made to destroy the bridgehead and drive us into the sea.

General Alexander says that the bitterness and fierceness of the fighting now going on both in the bridgehead and on the Cassino front surpasses all his previous experience.

On broad grounds of strategy, Hitler's decision to send into the south of Italy as many as 18 divisions involving with their maintenance troops probably something like half a million Germans and his decision there in Italy to make a large second-army front is not unwelcome to the Allies. We must fight the Germans somewhere in this war unless we are to stand still and watch the Russians. This wearing battle in Italy occupies troops which cannot be employed in other greater operations and it is an effective prelude to them.

Nation Shares Mahatma's Sorrow

True Embodiment Of Indian Womanhood: "Subordinated Her Own Feelings To Further Freedom's Cause Embodied In Her Husband's Lifework"

BOMBAY, February 22.

The Government of Bombay has issued the following Communique: "The Government of Bombay regrets to announce that Mrs. Kasturba Gandhi passed away at 7-35 p. m. to-day at the Aga Khan Palace, Poona."

POONA, Feb. 22.—Mahatma Gandhi, Hirala and Devadas, Mahatma Gandhi's eldest and youngest sons, Hirala's daughter, who is Kasturba's favourite grand daughter and another lady relative of the Gandhi family were among those who were by the side of Kasturba during her last moments.

It is understood that the funeral will take place to-morrow morning.

A TRUE SATI

Born in the year 1890 and married at the early age of 12, Shrimati Kasturba Gandhi, whose death is being mourned by millions of Indians, typified in herself the ancient Hindu ideal of a 'Sati'.

Although she had been the faithful consort of a man whose life has been lived almost entirely in public and for the public, Mrs. Gandhi was so retiring in her disposition that very little was known of her earlier career. Not that she was not a valiant participant in the fights in manifold causes which her great husband espoused, but that her work in and by itself was negligible. For all those who came into direct contact with her and felt the glow of her loving care and kind attention she was the unforgettable mother, 'Ba', as they affectionately called her.

Some measure of how much she had endeared herself to her countrymen was to be had in the storm of angry protest, which broke out when the bumptious representative of a British paper put out a yarn some months ago about her having been obliged to walk on foot from Victoria Terminus to Birla House. The Mahatma was a stern and exacting husband. He has frankly confessed in his autobiography that he had been once a 'jealous husband'. It was no fault of Kasturba Gandhi that she could not keep pace with her volcanic husband who moved from pinnacle to pinnacle in giant strides. She could not so easily outlive her orthodox environment and upbringing as her tempestuous husband. The climax of the conflict came in a memorable incident in Durban, South Africa. The Mahatma insisted on her emptying the 'slops' of an unapproachable guest. When her orthodox soul revolted against this indignity, the husband angrily thrust her out of the house. "Where am I to go? I have neither parents nor any relatives to harbour me," she cried in agonised accents. The Mahatma was ashamed and then realised the enormity of his unjust and unreasonable treatment of her. His whole attitude and his conduct towards her underwent a change after this.

She had repeatedly courted arrest and had gone to jail, as often as if not oftener than her illustrious husband. Of all the suffering and agony she had had to undergo in her life, there was, perhaps, nothing so agonising as her being called upon frequently to attend on her husband during his many fasts. Even of these no experience could have been so excruciatingly painful as her being a helpless witness during the Mahatma's 21 days' fast last February. And till that auspicious moment when she handed him the small glass of orange juice which ended his fast she must have prayed a thousand times to God that she might be spared what a Hindu wife dreads most—widowhood. And now true to her prayers and her faith she passed away in the sight of her long and master, the man whom she had followed all her life like his very shadow.

MALAVIYA'S CONDOLENCES

ALLAHABAD, Feb. 22. Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya has sent the following telegram to Mahatma Gandhi care of Home Department, Government of Bombay:— "Deeply grieved hear of the passing away. Matter for sincere thankfulness she has departed 'Sowbhagyavati' a woman whom women pray for. Country shares your sorrow. Malaviya."—A. P.

TRUE EMBODIMENT OF INDIAN WOMANHOOD

Mr. Bhulabhai Desai said:—"Ba's death is an event of the greatest sadness to the country. She has left a void which it will be impossible to fill. Her silent but effective work for the emancipation of India is only next to that of Bapu. Her humility and self-effacement are noblest in Indian womanhood. Her life and thought. She was the embodiment of all that is finest and noblest in Indian womanhood. Her soul lies in our conviction that Bapu has this strength and faith to sustain him in this his greatest ordeal of his life."

Mrs. Hansa Mehta said:—"Gandhi ji has lost a devoted wife and India one who was a real embodiment of Indian womanhood."

LIKE MOTHER TO ALL

Mrs. Perinben Captain said:—"She was like a mother to all of us. She was so simple and sincere. It would be very difficult to find one like her. Words fail me to express my feelings."

Mrs. Urmilaben Mehta, General Secretary of the All-India Women's Conference, said:—"India has lost a great woman. It is difficult to express one's feelings when one remembers her devotion not only to Mahatma Gandhi but to the cause to which they are dedicated."

INSIDE THE AGA KHAN'S PALACE

(From Our Correspondent.)
POONA, Tuesday (By Phone).
All was quiet at the gate of the Aga Khan Palace this evening when a tragedy was taking place inside.

Col. Bhandari, Inspector-General of Prisons, was seen returning from the Palace at 6-30 p.m.

At 7-50 p.m. however, he was seen rushing back to the Palace.

All relatives of Gandhi who had gone to the Palace at noon did not come out till evening.

Kasturba has gone after a married life-partnership of over 62 years.

The last person to rush to the bedside of Kasturba was her only brother Mr. Madhavai Gokuldas.

Col. Bhandari stayed at the Aga Khan's Palace till 11 p.m.

Lady Premilla Thackersey, Mr. Shankarumar Moorari and Swami Anand were permitted to be in the Palace till 11 p.m.

It is understood Kasturba was unconscious during the whole day. Her pulse was also feeble and she showed signs of collapse in the morning.

To-day is Mahashivratri day and exactly one year after the day of crisis (Feb. 21) which Mahatma passed during his 21-day fast last year.

cated. India mourns with Bapu the death of Kasturba.

"PEDESTAL TO CLIMB HIGHER"

Dr. M. R. Jayakar said:—"Mahadeo Desai first, then Kasturba; one sorrow after another; Government are lending unforeseen sanctity to prison life. Years ago, when I knew Mahatma well he used to regard sorrow as a purification. If this is still his view these afflictions are many pedestals placed in his path to climb higher and higher."

"HEAVY BLOW TO GANDHIJI"

Mr. Osman Sobani said:—"I am overwhelmed at the sad news. Her death is a great loss to Indian womanhood. Those who have known both Mahatma and Kasturba would pray that Gandhiji will be the strength to bear the heavy blow that has been struck while in prison."

WORLD SYMPATHY WILL GO OUT TO MAHATMA

Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas said:—"I am sure the world sympathy will go out to Mahatma in his sad loss in jail."

"TRUE COMRADE"

Mr. K. M. Munshi said:—"Kasturba's death removes from us the noblest woman of modern times. A true comrade of Gandhi, a heroic soul who lived that he may fulfil his flaming mission in life. She was, like Sita and Savitri, epic in her devotion to her husband. She was the embodiment of all that is finest and noblest in Indian womanhood. Her soul lies in our conviction that Bapu has this strength and faith to sustain him in this his greatest ordeal of his life."

Mrs. Lillawati Munshi said:—"Gandhiji lost a life's companion and the nation a mother. She was a brave woman without showing it and a great woman without knowing it."

City Mayor's Tribute
Mr. M. R. Masani, Mayor of Bombay, when informed of the sad news said:—"Kasturba Gandhi's greatness lay in her self-effacement. She was content to subordinate her own feelings and desires to further the cause of Indian freedom embodied in her husband's life-work."

"Our hearts go out to our great national leader in his loss which is all the more grievous because of his enforced isolation and a know that

Allies Regain Height In Arakan

BUT JAPANESE STIFFEN RESISTANCE ON MAIN FRONT

NEW DELHI, Feb. 22. During February 21 our troops continued dispersing the Japanese force on the Arakan Front and have captured the high ground point 1070 which overlooks the western section of the Ngakyedauk Pass, says to-day's Allied 'communique' issued by Headquarters, South-East Asia Command.

The position was occupied after severe fighting in which a considerable number of Japanese were cut off and driven out to the west on to the lower slopes where they are suffering severe casualties. The remainder of the Pass has been almost entirely cleared of the enemy, but he is resisting fiercely on the positions he still holds.

Strong patrols including tanks and carriers have been mopping up Japanese in the 7th Indian division area and have rounded up several small parties of exhausted enemy.

RAIDING PARTY CUT UP

Further to the north the remnants of the raiding party from the Bawli Road were further cut up when they attempted to continue their withdrawal to the east and hand to hand fighting in which British and Gurkhas participated resulted in casualties to the enemy and the capture of some mules.

The enemy shows some signs of stiffening up on the main front along the Maungdaw-Buthidaung Road.

In the Chin Hills activity increased to the north of Fort White. In the Atwa Yomas mule clashes with the enemy have occurred and active offensive patrols continue.

CHINESE CONTINUE PROGRESS
In the Hukawng Valley the Chinese continue to make progress against somewhat stiffer enemy resistance, and occupied La-awan ga six miles east of Talpa ga on February 21.

South of Samprabon on the Mulkhing Road our forces have carried out two more successful ambushes during the last few days. These encounters have resulted in comparatively heavy casualties being inflicted on the Japanese and the dispersal of the columns concerned.

"BEAR THE CROSS WITH FORTITUDE"

Dr. B. C. Roy said:—"Throughout his eventful life through suffering Gandhi has had Kasturba at his side, giving him single-minded devotion and silent comradeship. Gandhi is a man of God. He will I am convinced, bear the cross with fortitude and calmness because it is God's will."

SAPRU ON KASTURBA'S DEATH
ALLAHABAD, Feb. 22. Hearing the news of the death of Mrs. Gandhi Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru said:—"I am extremely sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Kasturba Gandhi, the devoted wife of Mahatma Gandhi. The circumstances in which she has died will add to the poignancy of the grief among her relatives, her friends and her countrymen. I have no doubt that the Mahatma will bear the loss irreparably as it is with that spirit of philosophic calm and resignation which is characteristic of him."

GIVE HIM A TONIC THAT IMPROVES DIGESTION, TOO

From bad to worse—that's how my son was getting. No appetite, nor interest in studies or games. His school-mates avoided his company, until a doctor friend recommended that I start him on Hemo-Drakso-Malt.

"Hemo-Drakso-Malt," he said, "contains assimilable iron and Glycophosphates and hemoglobin to build up the boy's constitution while he takes pepsin, malt and grape juice improve digestion. It is the safest tonic for children."

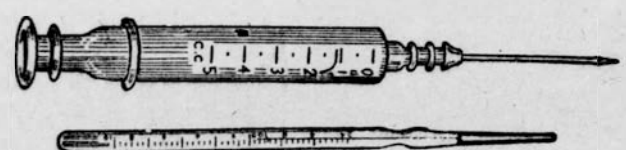

On top of his form. The transformation was remarkable. Now my boy leads the others in the school-room and on the playground. He eats well and sleeps well and is not a bit difficult to manage. I must recommend Hemo-Drakso-Malt to my complaining husband;—may be it'll do me good too.

Bengal's Worst Days Ahead
Swami Sambuddhananda, President, Ramakrishna Mission, Ashram, Khar, writes as follows:—

For the last one month or more conflicting statements with regard to the real condition of Bengal to-day have been appearing in the press all over India. The ministers of the present cabinet of Bengal have left no stone unturned to convince the public that the condition there is decidedly much improved and there is no apprehension of any further crisis in the province. Statements have also been issued by other parties contradicting all that the Bengal Cabinet have stated.

With a view to place before the public a true picture of the province the Ramakrishna Mission which has been working over an extensive area covering as many as 25 districts and thousands of villages for the last ten months, has been securing statements from almost all the villages of Bengal. The information that has reached us from most of the centres in different parts of Bengal declares unequivocally that "the worst days are ahead."

As there is no practical improvement of the condition of people and the price of articles of food and clothing has not yet been brought down to reasonable rates, the people apprehend a greater crisis from April next. The public of Bombay, which has so generously responded to the appeal of Bengal, higher-to-day can well imagine the tragic moment which is so fast approaching.

The Work of the Ramakrishna Mission is still going on in some form or other and will be carried on more vigorously than ever if sufficient funds be forthcoming for the work which it has undertaken. I, therefore, appeal fervently to the general public of Bombay to contribute their quota to the Ramakrishna Mission Relief Fund for the suffering millions of Bengal as usual. Any contributions sent to the Ramakrishna Mission, Khar, Bombay, will be most thankfully acknowledged.

Song Recital In Aid Of Bengal Destitutes

Though the famine in Bengal is claimed to be all but finished, millions of destitutes still require help in many ways. The children of women have become widows, thousands of children have lost their parents. Among the survivors are the disabled, and under-nourishment is almost universal.

Mrs. Bhikoo Mehta, pupil of the Italian maestro Professor Savini, will give a song recital in aid of the Bengal Relief Fund at 6-30 p.m. on Monday the 28th of February at Sir Cowasji Jehangir Hall. The tickets are priced at Rs. 10/-, 7/-, 5/-, 3/-, 2/- and 1/-, which are available at S. Rose & Co. Ramprasad Row, Fort, and at L. M. Furtado & Co., Kalbadevi Road, Dhobitalao. The very interesting programme includes Arias from "La Traviata", "Lo Hear the Gentle Lark" with flute obligato, "De puis le jour" from "Louise", the Voice of Spring, waltz and other beautiful songs by classical and romantic composers. Donations are invited from the public to enable Mrs. Mehta to offer a handsome amount to the cause of Bengal Relief. These may be sent to Mrs. Bhikoo S. Mehta, c/o Mr. Dadabhai Motiwala, Joshi House, Cumballa Hill Bombay.

Jowhar State Rice For Gujarat And C. I.

(From Our DAHANU, Feb. 21.)

It appears from a notice issued by the District Magistrate, Thana, that Jawhar State is permitted to export 50,000 bags of table rice to Gujarat and Central India. The new rice mills at Karado on the Dahanu Jawhar Road and two at Kudan attached to the Vada Palghat road have started to unhusk paddy. These mill-owners are making their purchases in State territory.

The controlled rate in Jawhar State is 50 per cent higher than that in Thana District. The merchants and Zamindars are therefore removing paddy from British territory to Jawhar State to get 50 per cent higher rates.

This smuggling is very difficult if not impossible to control as the State and British territories are interwoven.

"SWANLAKE" IN HINDU 'NATYA' TECHNIQUE

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—With the production of Tchaikovsky's "Swanlake" in Hindu Natya technique, American audiences, perhaps for the first time in the history of dancing, have witnessed a performance of classical western ballet interpreted wholly through the ancient dance idiom of India. The usual translation was made by Lameri, the well-known American exponent of Natya who admitted that conservative balletomanes "will probably tear me limb from limb," but he declared: "I produced 'Swanlake' in traditional Hindu style to show that the technique of Hindu 'natya'—far from being limited in expression, as some people say—is capable of depicting with startling vividness and clarity all the phases of the well-known western ballet. In fact, it is my firm belief that Hindu dance surpasses the possibilities of western ballet itself; yet from beginning to end I have not introduced into the production any movement or posture that has not been known and used in India since the time centuries ago they were first classified and defined in palm-leaf manuscripts."

The first presentation of Lameri's programme set off a heated debate among critics, some holding that the 'natya' interpretation is a profanation of the 'petipas' traditional choreography and others that the Hindu technique is costly as aesthetic as Pirouette's and Leap's in the 'petipas' original.

The 'New York Daily News' critic called the Hindu style "headwagging fingertip language," but the "Dance News" reviewer called it "an experiment well worth the effort and certainly most interesting to observe."

The full programme included classical Indian dances representative of all parts of India.

Lameri is the author of the book "Pictures of Hindu Dance" published by the Columbia University. He has spent much time in India, studying the part of 'natya shastra'—Reuter.

Tenders For Purchase Of Food Grains

NEW DELHI, Feb. 21. (From Our Correspondent)

I understand the Government of India will shortly introduce the system of tenders for purchase of food-grains in place of buying through their agents. This is in response to the persistent demands made inside and outside the legislature.

I understand that the Neimayer award will shortly be amended for the purpose of giving effect to new deal with Sind Government under which in consideration of a specified sum in cash the Central Government would forego the subvention paid to that province by the Centre.

DYES AND CHEMICALS CONTROL ORDER

NEW DELHI, Feb. 22: A Press Note says: An amendment to the Cotton Textiles (Dyes and Chemicals) Control Order issued to-day extends the period during which dealers in dyes and chemicals may trade without a licence from the Textile Commissioner till February 29, 1944.—A. P.

我々八神

*That is the Japanese for
"WE ARE THE SONS OF HEAVEN".

Every Japanese really believes this—that he is of divine origin and therefore superior to all other races. In fact, he neatly compartments all the people on earth into three classes—The Japanese, the chosen people; the White Races; and lastly, the Coloured Races, including the Negroes.

Us, he calls "Korumbas".

He really believes that "the Chosen People" have an absolute right to plunder, steal, ravage and terrorise. No wonder he does the things you read about. No wonder the Japanese are notorious for their dreadful cruelty to soldiers and civilians alike. For they are barbarians! Their twisted minds look upon human life as valueless, upon women as chattels, upon treachery as diplomacy and upon themselves (always remember) as sacred.

They are so treacherous as to be beyond the processes of international treaties. There is only one way to treat them. They must be stripped of all their power and rendered harmless. Unconditional surrender, and nothing less! That is what we want from them.

Mahashivratri In Bombay Chowpatty sands to-day presented a picturesque sight owing to the celebration of Maha Shivratri holiday. Thousands of Hindus, men, women and children went to Chowpatty for the morning "dip" into the sea. The rush of the people was so great that special police arrangements had to be made to regulate traffic. The banks, police courts, High Court and commercial offices were closed for the day.

Mahashivratri is dedicated to the worship of Shiva, the "Destroyer" among the Hindu trinity. A complex feast is observed both day and night as also a vigil. The Shiv Linga is worshipped at night with offerings of "Ketaki" flowers and "Bel" (wood apple) leaves.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

We do right to expect great things from the State, but we ought to expect still greater things from ourselves. —A. E.

The Bombay Chronicle

KASTURBA GANDHI

The tragic event has at last come about. The Government of Bombay have announced the death of Shrimati Kasturba Gandhi in prison at Poona where she had been held a close prisoner since August 1942. Though the country had been prepared to receive the sad news through the periodical health reports from those who kept her as a captive, the announcement of the news itself will overwhelm the nation with sorrow. To millions of men and women in India Kasturba was like a mother. And truly will they feel orphaned to-day. Simple in her way of life, devoted as an ideal wife, unbreakable and courageous in spirit and humble to the point of self-effacement, Kasturba represented in her life the real essence of Indian womanhood. She carried on her shoulders the sorrows of a nation in subjection and her treatment to the cause of the emancipation of the country from thralldom was surpassed by none. Though those who held her as captive knew that her health had been deteriorating for some time, they would not even allow her the choice as to her treatment. Their spokesmen with characteristic callousness declared more than once that it was good for her to be where she was and that an eminent specialist was available at the place of her detention for constant consultation! Kasturba has died in harness. Her life of selfless devotion to the cause of freedom is cut short. Her death within prison walls will ever remain a blazing reminder to those who are left behind to complete the work that she has left to do. To Mahatma Gandhi her death is a great blow. First Mahadev Desai, then Kasturba, the two so near and dear to him, true comrades and companions in his journey of fulfilment, great and noble mission—the mission of the emancipation of India and with it humanity as a whole—have been snatched away from him one after the other. Only a man of his strength and faith can survive the heavy blows that have come on him in the strange circumstances in which he is placed. India, nay the world, shares with Gandhi his grief and prays for the peace of Kasturba's soul.

Salute To The Red Army

To-day marks the 26th official anniversary of the Red Army. Actually the decree ordering the creation of the Red Army was signed by Lenin on the 28th of January 1918. But it was on the 23rd of February that the infant army inflicted a decisive defeat on the German occupying forces near Narva and Pskov—a terrain which the whirligig of history is making the scene of another historic battle to-day 26 years afterwards. "Guard the Red Army like the apple of your eye," was the constant teaching of Lenin to his colleagues. The advice has been faithfully followed by his successor, Stalin, and the Russian people have been all those years stinting and sacrificing in order to make the Red Army the mighty engine of war that it has proved to be. The policy which was frequently criticised by myopic critics has more than justified itself and it can forever be the proud boast of the Red Army that it has saved not merely the Soviet State and its people but the entire democratic world itself. What amazing delusions about the Red Army were entertained barely three years ago! Hitler hoped to annihilate it within ten weeks—an expectation which was shared by the British and the Allies. General staffs of the Allies actually performed the feat in the studio of the Berlin Radio! The Russian war of the last 32 months can be roughly divided into two periods. During the first the Red Army suffered terrific punishment and had to evacuate territory after territory until it reached the Volga. During all its fighting retreat, however, it never lost its homogeneity or its clan. It had always the superb confidence that the tide would turn back—and it did at Stalingrad. And ever since then during the last fourteen months it has never looked back. It has liberated most of the occupied area and even crossed the frontier. It has all looked like a miracle—a series of miracles which is slowly being unveiled before our eyes. These seeming miracles have however cost the Red Army and the Soviet people incalculable suffering and the casualties of the former easily run into millions. Let us not forget that the Red Army and its makers—Lenin, Stalin, Voroshilov, Kirov, Budenny and the host of young generals who have made the proud Whermacht bite the dust. And let us not forget on this day Trotsky, too, whose ghost is still haunting the corridors of history.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

Commerce Member's Denial

"Sir A. H. Ghaznavi asked in the Central Assembly whether it was a fact that orders for goods going to be placed with the United Kingdom, that one of the conditions of booking such orders was that the industrialists had to pay a certain deposit which would be forfeited if the orders did not mature. The Government were already reserving a portion of India's sterling balance in lieu of these orders and that the Government of India were inducing and encouraging Indian industrialists to book the orders immediately. The Commerce Member, Sir Azizul Haque replied: "The answer to all parts of the question is in the negative. Industrial concerns have, however, been invited to intimate their post-war requirements of capital goods (machinery) so as to enable Government to assist such industries in securing priority for their requirements if they so desired." Sir Abdul Halim Ghaznavi is the President of the All-India Muslim Chamber of Commerce and his question could not have been based on hearsay reports. He must have had sufficient evidence before him to justify his question. The Commerce Member's reply is unequivocal and leaves no room for doubt. But we cannot accept that denial without a positive and full statement to clarify the position that Manufacturers' representatives in India have assumed in regard to forward inquiries about capital goods, namely machinery. We do not know whether Sir Abdul Halim or any other member sought to get this inquiry done, which is a reply from a firm representing British manufacturers of capital goods to the following from that document

We have, however, before us an inquiry document which is a reply from a firm representing British manufacturers of capital goods to the following from that document for the education of the Commerce Member and the public. A condition entered on the makers' books to rank for priority, would be that you would send me a sum in Rupees as earnest money equivalent approximately to 5 per cent of the nominal value of the O. B. prices ruling at that time, to be treated when telegraphically transmitted by us to the Makers in sterling at the then ruling rate of exchange, as a sterling payment made by you. No interest would be allowed on the sum in question. Your order would be registered on the Makers' books as and from the date the remittance is received by us, provided that Makers have confirmed that they are prepared to register your order. If the order is confirmed by you, the sterling sum would be treated as part payment on account, but if the order is not confirmed by you within a reasonable time after you receive the firm price quotation, the sum would be treated as a price paid for preliminary preferential registration of your requirements and in the event of the order being forfeited and not repaid to you." (Italics ours.)

From what is quoted above it must be obvious that one of the conditions for booking orders was that "the industrialist had to pay a certain deposit which would be forfeited if the orders did not mature." As Sir Abdul Halim has put it. We do not know whether the Commerce Member has to say to this. The matter should not be dismissed lightly. We hope that Sir Abdul Halim or other members of the Central Assembly would take the earliest opportunity to expose the real position.

The 15 Year Plan

The 15 year plan of economic development for India, announced by Sir Purushottamdas Thakurdas and others has created a lively interest. The British Government and the Government of India are not enamoured of the Purushottamdas plan. They are suspicious and cautious. They are apologetic about the post-war reconstruction plans they might have brought into shape. They seem to be solicitous mainly of the interests of the British exporters in the post-war Indian market as against American and Indian competitors. Their emphasis on the development of agricultural production and communications is symptomatic.

Although most of the foregoing criticisms and objections may be discounted there are several aspects of the plan which cannot be lightly ignored. The plan postulates the establishment of a national Government as well as a national economy. It is implied by a national government? In whose hands is effective political power to vest? The leftists, socialists, communists and Royists look forward to this as a hope and a cloak under which the capitalists, they think will seek to show to their own advantage and to the detriment of the masses in general. Arent nationalists suspect that the authors of the plan would compromise over the question of independence, that they would accept the imperialist world order? The British provided the British concede the Indian businessman a major share in the covering of the Indian as well as such other areas as the Middle and Far East. But the prerequisite national government which the plan postulates is a democratic parliamentary government. It further implies an all-party government.

The increase in industrial income is dependent on the increase in agricultural income. The increase in the agricultural income is impossible unless the peasant, the tiller of the land, is assured security of tenure and the ownership of the land. This is impossible under a feudal economy. Is feudalism to be liquidated? Are big landlords and zamindars to be dispossessed? What is the state enforced stipends? What is the idea? And if any, how is that to be enforced? Is it to be a parliamentary democracy? We know what great opposition the Bombay Congress Government met with in its endeavour to secure the release of the students and the release of the students and the release of the students.

In the industrial field itself the managing agency system is on a par with absentee landlordism and is equally uneconomic. And how is militant trade unionism to be controlled under a parliamentary system of government? The reversion of control of trade unionism, although necessary, is likely to militate against the procurement of skilled labour which is indispensable for modern industrial activity. Apart from the question as to what amount of hoarded wealth is available for productive purposes, its inducement into the productive channels is dependent on the productive activity springing from the surplus. The question is how to provide for the interim period. Credit in the form of the sterling securities is likely to prove a failure. What is there is every likelihood of the same being misappropriated. Favourable trade balances also are a reliable source of funds. But the dependence of the preponderance of exports over imports, the import of capital goods, necessary in the preliminary stages of the plan is paid for through their resources a favourable trade balance seems to be almost an impossibility. The idea of creating money against prospective production is a sound one. But unless a productive process gets a considerable start and erects a bulwark against an inflationary trend the device remains only a happy dream. The question is how to provide for the initial stage of generating a momentum. Foreign borrowings can't be the trick. For they are also attracted towards a going and paying peace. It is clear, but he is determined to win the war! He does not want to win the hearts but the physical bodies of the people.

It is not so much after winning peace, it is clear, but he is determined to win the war! He does not want to win the hearts but the physical bodies of the people.

SECOND NAZI ATTEMPT FAILS

Allies Hold Initiative In Anzio Bridgehead

LONDON, Feb. 22. Allied Headquarters North Africa: The absence of major fighting and the relaxation of German pressure in the beachhead for the second day in succession is interpreted officially here as meaning that the German offensive against the Anzio beachhead has failed, cables Reuters special correspondent.

No ground was exchanged and our positions remain unaltered after yesterday's minor clashes in the beachhead. Air missions in the beachhead were curtailed by poor visibility, which also grounded most of our long-range bombers. The German radio reported that the Fifth Army can start its northward drive.

Allied forces now hold the initiative after some of the heaviest and bloodiest fighting in the whole campaign. The Germans still hold the Monastery of San Elmo, a mile south of the beachhead, but they are not in a position to start their northward drive.

PRELUDE TO ANOTHER NAZI ATTACK

The comparative lull which has succeeded the big battle along the Anzio road is possibly but a peaceful prelude to a new onslaught. Breaches in the German lines in the beachhead were admitted by a German radio reporter as "inevitable." The Roman radio reported violent fighting in the beachhead where during the past hours the battle has spread to more sectors.

The heavy artillery exchanged in the Anzio beachhead and strong patrol missions in the beachhead were curtailed by poor visibility, which also grounded most of our long-range bombers. The German radio reported that the Fifth Army can start its northward drive.

EXCHANGE OF WAR PRISONERS

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 22. Prince Carl, President of the Swedish Red Cross, said today that the Swedish Government had approached the British and United States and German Governments with a view to new and larger exchanges of war prisoners. No reply has yet been received. Count Toft-Bernstrom is now in London to discuss prisoners of war exchanges and general Red Cross work with the British—Reuters.

medical inspections always ignore the most important and vital question of carefully examining the diseases of the students, and showing the remedy of prescribing the medicines to cure them.

What is the use of such medical inspections and so-called qualified doctors when they cannot examine the students carefully and render every possible help to cure the students?

The free medical aid to the students is one of the most urgent needs now-a-days. A large majority of the students are poor and have no money and so there is a great need of one University Hospital with a couple of decent wards and a well qualified staff.

I earnestly request the Senate to consider this question soon and seriously.

The Wrong Way Still

It is true that "few people will be surprised at what the Viceroy said the other day." But what all the people are surprised at is that the Viceroy should take such a long time to say what he said. Was he afraid to let his cat out of his so-much-talked-of mental bag that he carried so ever since he came to India? Or was he merely fooling the notoriously optimistic people of India and to keep them merely guessing for as long a time as possible?

BATTLE FOR KRIVOI ROG

Soviet Drive To Clear Nazis From South-Western Ukraine

MOSCOW, Feb. 22

From Reuters' staff correspondent. Latest reports from the Ukraine front said that the iron ore city of Krivoi Rog is now almost surrounded by troops of the Red Army.

As Soviet forces drive deeper into the city the crash of guns mingles with the boom of exploding German ammunition. The Germans are firing from windows and rooftops as the battle goes on in the town itself. Soviet guns have the last exits in the city and are firing from the north and south.

Soviet tanks are smashing through German barricades. In the north a big Russian army pivoting on a 70-mile front west of Staraya Russa is menacing the junction of Dno. The battle for Krivoi Rog is as fierce as any previous struggle for the city, but this time the Red Army is more than ever determined that the Germans are going out for good. The present drive is to clear the Germans from the whole south-western corner of Ukraine, including the towns of Kherson, Nikolayev and Odessa.

WILL WAVELL ALLOW 'C. R.' TO MEET MAHATMA?

(From A Special Correspondent.)

LONDON, Feb. 22. The Rajagopalachari-Waveill interview is being discussed with great interest in political circles here, which believe that Lord Wavell may practice conciliation instead of preaching and allow Mr. Rajagopalachari to meet Mahatma Gandhi as a pre-requisite for a satisfactory settlement of the Indian deadlock.

Though the Tory Press generally supported Lord Wavell's "conciliatory" speech, a conservative opinion demands the unconditional release of Mahatma Gandhi as a pre-requisite for a satisfactory settlement of the Indian deadlock. Lenin's first care, therefore, was to create the armed force of the Soviet State.

By a decree of the Council of People's Commissars, dated January 28, the workers and peasants' Red Army was formed. This inexperienced army was confronted by a cruel and implacable enemy armed to the teeth. German forces were already approaching Pskov and Narva and were threatening Petrograd.

IRON DISCIPLINE

Lenin proceeded to build up an efficient and disciplined army so that it might not be as he said "riddled for German guns." He demanded that no single breach of discipline should be allowed to go unpunished, and that military training should be insisted on iron discipline as an indispensable condition for victory. "Whoever does not help the Red Army wholeheartedly and unselfishly," he wrote, "whoever does not support order and discipline with all his might, is a traitor and a treason monger."

Lenin directed and controlled all the activities of the Red Army Command. He gave instructions defining the aims and directions of operations, and worked out plans of hostilities. In the summer of 1919, Kolchak's army was staggering back to the Urals under the blows of the Red Army. Lenin telegraphed to the staff on the Eastern Front insisting on the necessity of a vigorous offensive against Kolchak. He emphasised that any delay or inactivity in the offensive at the approaches to the Urals would mean playing into Kolchak's hands. Lenin ordered that Kolchak were allowed to retain possession of the Urals and Siberia, he might recover from his defeat, strengthen his forces and again become a menace to the Soviet Republic. Therefore, in order to complete the defeat of Kolchak, he demanded that the Eastern Front be strengthened, and forbade any transfer of troops from that front to the south against Denikin.

At length Kolchak's army was routed and driven across the Urals; and Lenin issued a new slogan: "All for the high against Denikin!" Fresh forces were dispatched to the southern front, which was now most dangerous. The southern front, too, Lenin sent Stalin who, after a number of fierce battles, hurled Denikin's army in the Black Sea.

Lenin said that the only chance of victory lay in active and determined operations aiming at the complete annihilation of the enemy. He demanded resolute action from commanders of armies and fronts, and ordered them to pursue and harass the enemy and not to allow him even a moment's respite.

RAIDERS OVER ENGLAND

LONDON, Feb. 22. An air raid alert was sounded in the London area early to-day. The all clear was sounded shortly after the alert.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN Respect of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. A Sunlight laboratory assistant replies...

Save clothes?—That's the main purpose of Sunlight's self-acting lather. It can work by itself to get the dirt out of dirty clothes. You needn't beat the dirt out, so you don't beat the clothes into holes. The 'live' soap in self-acting lather fastens on to dirt as soon as it touches it, and wherever the lather goes then the dirt goes too—when it's rinsed out of the fabric it takes the dirt with it. 99
